Pertinent Paragraphs

Current reports on the recent presentation by local high school students of the opera, "Pinafore," indicate something of a "washout." In the opinion of the writer the players deserve a measure of praise for their noble effort to make it a success. Any adverse criticism should be directed at those who selected so difficult an opera for a limited and inexperienced cast. We have some talented young folks in our schools who, if given an even break, perform to the credit of us all, but it is too much to expect them to succeed in an opera as difficult as "Pinafore" is generally conceded to be.

It seems that we are about to make another attempt to put over a bond issue for the purpose of financing a new high school building. There is no question that present needs require more up to date housing facilities. And even if the present equipment were adequate we would still need a new building—unless, of course, we are willing to stand idly by and watch lesser communities, possessing attractive high schools, absorb the cream of the constant influx of new settlers. There is an element of "stand-paters" in this community who will now, as in the past, exert themselves to the breaking point to block the forward movement. They are property owners who haven't the sense to see that a first class high school in Campbell would boost the value of their holdings by a great many dollars. They will be over-ridden eventually—why not now?

Marshal Ferdinand Foch, head of the allied forces in the World war, passed away at his home in Paris Wednesday at the age of 77 years. He was one of the greatest military figures in the history of the world and the idol of his people. Through his many campaigns he held to this, his favorite maxim: "Find the weak point of your enemy and strike him there." Another: "If he has no weak point, make one!" The soundness of this rule, as applied by the intrepid Foch, is common knowledge. In uttering these words the great militarist unconsciously gave every individual something to think about—a warning which, if heeded, will save many of us from minor and major misfortune. "Let us have no weak points through which we may be attacked in everyday life; if thorough self-analysis reveals weak points in character, conduct or integrity, correct them." In other words, conduct yourself and your affairs in a manner which will bear the closest scrutiny of a world quick to condemn.

Reading an account of the slaughter of 350 canaries and other pets by two monkeys who escaped, during the night, from their cages in a New York pet shop, brings forcibly to mind the argument that humans rose from a position in the animal kingdom similar to that now occupied by the monkey. Did you ever watch a small boy take a clock apart to see what made the wheels go round? We may say that the same spirit of innocent destructiveness prompted the actions of the monkeys in the

HI SCHOOL PTA NOTES

The Campbell Union High School P. T. A. held their regular evening meeting on Tuesday, March 18, in the assembly hall of the school. The evening meetings are usually social so there was very little business transacted.

Several selections were given by the high school orchestra under the direction of A. A. Thielke.

Charles Crook, principal of the Willow Glen school gave an interesting talk on the value of education.

After discussion of various subjects the meeting adjourned.

ST. LUCY'S PARISH IS CONSTRUCTING NEW CHURCH BUILDING

St. Lucy parishioners are to possess a new church building. The structure, which is being erected on the corner of Rincon avenue and third street, will be 33 by 80 feet in size and will have an auditorium, choir loft and basement, fully furnished. The cost is expected to be approximately $7000.

Frank Neves of Santa Clara is the architect and the building committee is composed of A. B. Gilson, Joe Homan, J. F. Rogers, Manuel Santos, J. Pavlovich, J. Halamicek, J. Gomas and Mr. LeFevre.

The new church is expected to be ready for occupancy by April 28, at which time a large class will be confirmed by Father John McGarr.

THIEF ENTERES RANCH HOME, GETS AWAY WITH SUIT OF CLOTHES

A burglar or burglars Saturday night entered the home of R. Marsh, Alice avenue rancher, and stole a suit of clothes. Nothing else was taken, according to Mr. Marsh.

Deputy Sheriffs Tom Graham and Ben Torres were called to investigate the robbery but found nothing which pointed to the guilty party.

COUNTRY WOMAN'S CLUB NOTES

The second program devoted to a study of George Bernard Shaw was enjoyed by the Country Woman's club Monday afternoon.

Mrs. H. C. Smith was chairman of the program committee and read a little newspaper announcement of Shaw's new play, "The Apple Cart," to be presented at Malvern in August. She also read an account of the 500th anniversary of Joan of Arc's ride to Orleans to be celebrated in France, in which 30 descendants of her brothers will participate.

Mrs. George Medlock was then introduced and she gave a very fine resume of the preface to the author's last published play, "St. Joan."

To create the appropriate martial atmosphere, Mrs. S. M. King played a piano arrangement of "La Marseillaise."

Mrs. Ira Beal, Mrs. Carl Field, Mrs. Harry Lohr and Mrs. Guy Farley then read excerpts from the play, connecting up the scenes with brief sketches. The prologue was read almost in entirety.

The reading was very well done as evidenced by the many appreciative comments made by the auditors, who all seemed to enjoy the play and its interpretation.

Purple iris was used in abundance in the decoration of the hall, brightened by attractive baskets of narcissus.

Mrs. R. H. Hyde called attention to the program of April 15, which will be an open meeting at which Alonzo Baker of Mountain View will discuss the Kellogg peace pact.

Board Confers With Architect

The high school board held a conference with the architect, W. H. Weeks, Wednesday evening for the purpose of determining the approximate cost of a new school plant.

Different types of construction were discussed, and Mr. Weeks was asked to prepare drawings to illustrate the important features and estimate cost of several types of building.

The board is desirous of securing plans which will enable them to build for less than $250,000.

The board accepted the bid of the Ferguson Music House for a Kimball grand piano.

TO TAKE CENSUS NOV. 1, ACCORDING TO WORD RECEIVED FROM FREE

The following communication was received at the Press office this week:

Harry C. Smith
Campbell, Calif.

My Dear Sir:

It is planned to take the next census about Nov. 1, 1929. The counties of San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Benito will be included in one district, with headquarters at San Jose, under the direction of a supervisor of the census, who will have directly under him about 200 enumerators. The enumerators will receive four cents per name in towns and cities and a rate yet to be determined upon for the work in the rural sections.

I am very anxious to have a very careful census taken and suggest that if persons will send in the names of responsible individuals who are willing to assist in this work they will be submitted to the director of the census.

It is planned to complete the actual count within two weeks and to announce the result immediately in the district.

Everyone should co-operate in this work as it is very vital that California should have a proper census taken at this time.

Very truly yours,
A. M. FREE

MUSIC LOVERS BID TO ORATORIO AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rossini's "Stabat Mater" will be presented at the First Presbyterian church in San Jose on the evening of Good Friday.

The Campbell high school evening chorus, Los Gatos chorus and the First Presbyterian church choir are all combining for this rendition and it promises to be a splendid musical attraction.

No doubt many will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this masterpiece of Rossini, for it is rarely given except in large cities and musical centers.

The immense chorus will be supported by six leading soloists, piano and organ, under the direction of Homer De Witt Pugh.

TRAMP DAY OBSERVED BY HI STUDENTS TODAY

Today students of the Campbell high school observed "tramp day." Occurring annually, "tramp day" is a tradition dating away back in the history of the local school.

This year, as on other occasions, the boys featured some rather startling costumes and reports indicate that "a good time was had by all."

DAUGHTER OF MRS. E. R. SMITH BURIED AT LOS ANGELES TUESDAY

Funeral services were held in Los Angeles Tuesday for Mrs. Gertrude Spaulding, a daughter of the late J. Fred Smith, one time principal of the Campbell high school, and Mrs. Elen R. Smith of South Second street, Campbell. Mrs. Spaulding passed away at her home Sunday after an illness extending over the past year.

Deceased was born in Fishkill, New York. Her childhood was spent in Grinnell, Iowa. In 1899 she came to Campbell with her family and entered Stanford university, graduating from that institution in 1904. Her work at the university earned her membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

From 1905 to 1907 she was secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at Stanford, and from 1907 to 1909 she occupied the same position at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. In 1910 she was married to Charles Edgar Spaulding of Los Angeles.

She has always been an active worker in her church and in all community work for young people. The grace and beauty of her personality left an enduring impression upon all whom her life touched.

Mrs. Spaulding is survived by her mother, her husband and three daughters besides two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Voge of Campbell and Mrs. Glass of Texas, and four brothers, Harold of China, Stewart and Gordon, both of San Francisco and Stanley, of Campbell.

TED GAIL, LOCAL BAKER, SPORTS A NEW INTERNATIONAL

The Peter Pan bakery, operated by Ted Gail, has added to its equipment a new International truck in which bread and other products of the oven are being delivered to towns adjacent to Campbell.

Mr. Gail, an old timer in the bakery game, who, with his family, is making the local shop hum, is himself driving the truck and calling on the trade. He says good luck is attending him on the wholesaling venture.

TO CURB HIGH SCHOOL SPEEDERS IS REPORT

According to reports current in student circles, action was taken at the last meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association to curb the speeding of high school students on Campbell streets after school and during the noon hour.

They plan, according to the rumor, to take the license number of cars being operated at excessive speeds, and sending them in to the traffic department at Sacramento. A given number of offenses, all on file at this bureau, will be cause for the revoking of the offender's drivers' license.

 "If you children are ready, I'll explain about the Blues."
 "I know Mother, but if we are red—"
 "You're getting awfully funny," replied Billie.
 "Even the clock is laughing as it puts its hands in front of its face," laughed Bobbie.
 "Come, keep still. Let Mother tell us."
 "I am one of the Blues at your school. It counts 20 when I visit and it counts 20 when Mrs. White Rabbit goes for the Reds. Is that quite clear to you children?"
 "Sure it's clear, but when are you going?" asked Bobbie.
 "I am going when you two go upstairs and put your feet at the head of the bed and go to sleep. No, I mean, when you put your heads at the head of the beds and—"
 "Mother, I think you must have been talking to the Wise Old Owl," laughed Billie, as she gave her mother a big kiss.
 Bobbie followed suit and soon the children were climbing the stairs on the way to their rooms.
 Billie looked down and shouted:
 "Mother, you have a hole in your face!"
 "Have I?" cried Mrs. Rabbit, in amazement.
 "Ha, ha, he, he! It's your mouth," cried Billie, as she ducked into her room.

COW MILKING TABLE. STAND OR RUN YOU'RE SHOT. AN OFFER FOR COOLIDGE. A GIFT TO MRS. COOLIDGE.

Farmers will be interested in the "fifty cow milking table." The information comes from Dr. J. H. McNeil, Chief of the New Jersey Bureau of Animal Industry. The milking table is devised by the Walker Gordon Company's New Jersey milk farm.

It is a beginning of industrial methods applied to milk production. A huge table like a small "round house," with fifty absolutely clean cow stalls on it, is made to revolve, slowly. The cows walk on and off, while the table is in motion, and soon get used to the new idea.

To each cow an electrical milking device is attached as it enters its stall. At the end of one complete table turning, the cow, milked and "stripped," walks off the table at the spot where it walked on, and is immediately fed.

Feed your cows always after milking. Feeding before milking taints the milk. Cows like the milk mass production idea, the relief of milking, followed by the pleasure of eating, makes a pleasant combination.

The Walker Gordon Company, milking fifteen hundred cows in one of its stables, can use several tables.

Farmers may take their cows to co-operative milking lines, like the production line in an automobile factory. Workers will stand still, cows slowly passing them, one man cleaning them free of dust by vacuum cleaner, made by Mr. Wooley of the American Radiator Company.

Another man would wash the cows' udders, another apply the milking machinery, another meet the milked cow, walking off the line to her dinner.

Such a plan, taking the cow to the man, would put milk farming on a modern industrial basis. The average milk farmer would like to get thirty cents a quart for his milk, as Walker Gordon does, instead of $1.80 for 100 pounds of milk, but that is another problem.

In these days of widespread crime it is difficult to know whether to stand still or run.

Henry Lagowitz, seventeen, innocent of evil, coming out of his aunt's house, saw a "plain clothes" detective who for some reason didn't like his looks and told him to stop.

He thought it was a highwayman, and ran. On general principles, the detective shot him. He will recover.

On the high road a man raises his hand, orders a driver to stop. The driver has two guesses. He may be stopped by a highwayman, intent on robbing him, or by a virtuous prohibition enforcement officer, investigating.

The wise thing is to stop and save your life, for in either case you run the risk of being shot.

Mr. Mills, able advertising man, wishes you to know that he has offered President Coolidge $75,000 a year for four years, to act as general director of a home-furnishing movement.

President Coolidge has bigger offers. Why not offer the home-furnishing job to Colonel Lindbergh, whose mind just now is probably concentrated on that very subject.

KIWANIS NOTES

On Tuesday last the Kiwanis club met as usual in the library community hall for its weekly mid-day lunch.

Harry C. Smith was chairman of the day and under his genial leadership a most happy and enjoyable time was enjoyed during the noon hour.

Ralph H. Hyde, chairman of the finance committee, announced that the amount now pledged for the new building for the Boy Scouts and Campfire girls had reached nearly $1,200. Other pledges are still coming in and it is hoped the construction work will soon be under way.

William Finnemore was at the luncheon and told of the need of more signers for the Prune - Apricot association. Some dissatisfaction has been expressed by those who have been members of the old association because of larger prices being obtained by non-members, in some instances, by selling to the outside packer. While this may to some extent have been true, yet one of the members of the Kiwanis club recalls selling his prunes one year before the growers organized on a one and one-half cent basis. And this was the top price for the season!

The main speaker for the day was J. R. Brokenshire, city editor of the San Jose Mercury Herald. His subject was "The History of the Newspaper." Some of the high spots touched in his very interesting talk follow:

The first newspaper was published in 1703 by Daniel De Foe, author of "Robinson Crusoe." For a cut he had a mariner's compass. The four letters, N E W S, standing for the four points of the compass were made to spell "news." Thus the origin of the "newspaper."

The first American newspaper, The Boston News Letter, appeared the following year, 1704. In 1719 the second American newspaper, The Boston Gazette, started publication under the guidance of James Franklin, an elder brother of Benjamin Franklin.

In 1728 Benjamin Franklin started The Philadelphia Gazette, which is still running as the Saturday Evening Post.

From this small beginning Brokenshire outlined the growth of newspapers to the present time. There are now in the United States 397 morning and 1,542 evening papers turn-

Who can afford to be without a telephone?
